Part A. Evaluation reporting guidance

This document has been produced to guide you during your project evaluation, within the broader Local Government Free From Violence Grants Program (the Local Government Program). Your project level evaluation, which the Municipal Association of Victoria (MAV) will assist you to deliver, will be a key input into the overarching evaluation of the Local Government Program.

The following figure depicts how your project level evaluation will contribute to the evaluation of the Local Government Program, which is a key program of work under the First Action Plan 2018-2021 of the *Free from violence strategy*¹.

A.1 Program description

The Local Government program is a key initiative under Priority Area Four - 'Scale up and build on what we know works' of the First Action Plan. This priority area aims to ensure that the prevention activities and initiatives that have been proven to work continue to grow. By 2021, a range of activities will have been piloted, evaluated and rolled out in rural, regional and metropolitan areas in a variety of settings.

Your project sits under the Local Government program and is part of a package of work that is supporting councils to be leaders in the primary prevention of family violence and all other forms of violence against women. The Local Government program is supporting the local government sector to deliver activities that:

- Strengthen and embed infrastructure in local government to support the scale-up and development of innovative prevention activity at the local level
- Build the capacity and capability of councils and enhance the quality and effectiveness of primary prevention activity
- Build the knowledge and understanding of family violence and all forms of violence against women within leaders across the local government sector and related projects
- Increase the coordination and consistency of primary prevention efforts across the local government sector
- Strengthen MAV's capacity in the coordination and delivery of primary prevention activity and preparing for a broader scale-up of prevention activity.

¹ For further detail on the Free from violence strategy, see Appendix 1.

The Local Government Program is comprised of 35 local councils delivering a range of primary prevention initiatives across Victoria. Of these 35 local councils, 19 councils are delivering the Workplace Equality and Respect Program. This initiative aims to promote cultural change by embedding gender equitable structures, norms and practices within Victorian public sector and other workplaces.

A.2 Theory of change and program logic

The Local Government Program is underpinned by a theory of change and program logic.

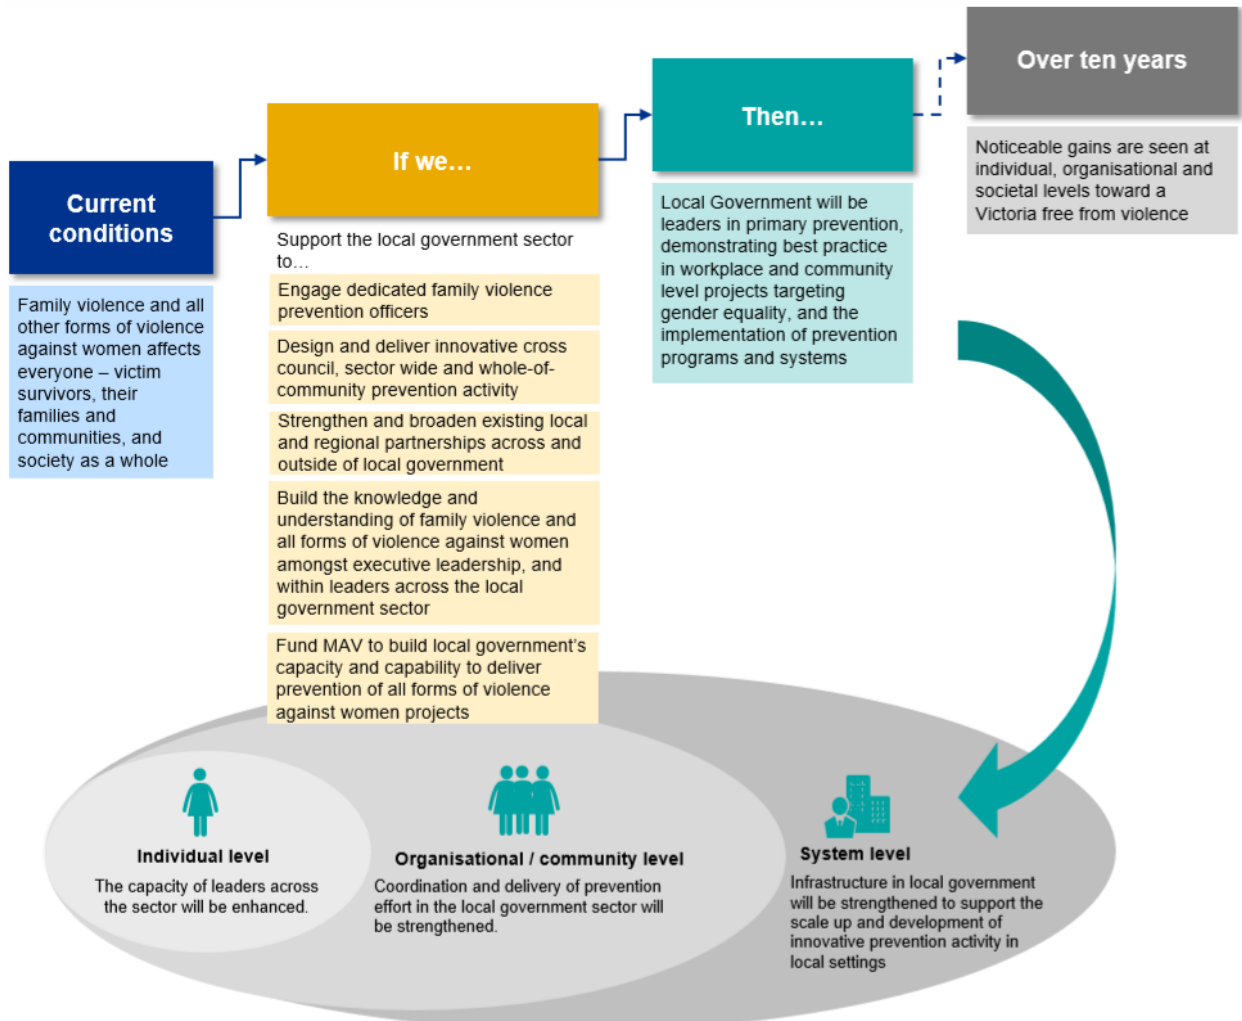

The theory of change is a conceptual representation of how change is expected to occur and the underlying assumptions of the change process. A program logic is an operational representation of the theory of change that focuses on the resources and inputs, planned activities, outputs and outcomes over time, which will help the program meet its desired change.

The underlying assumptions of the change process that influence the effectiveness of the program include:

- A continued commitment from government to implement the recommendations outlined in the Royal Commission
- Sustained commitment from councils and community organisations to implement the recommendations outlined in the Royal Commission
- A continuation of funding for primary prevention efforts.

Theory of change

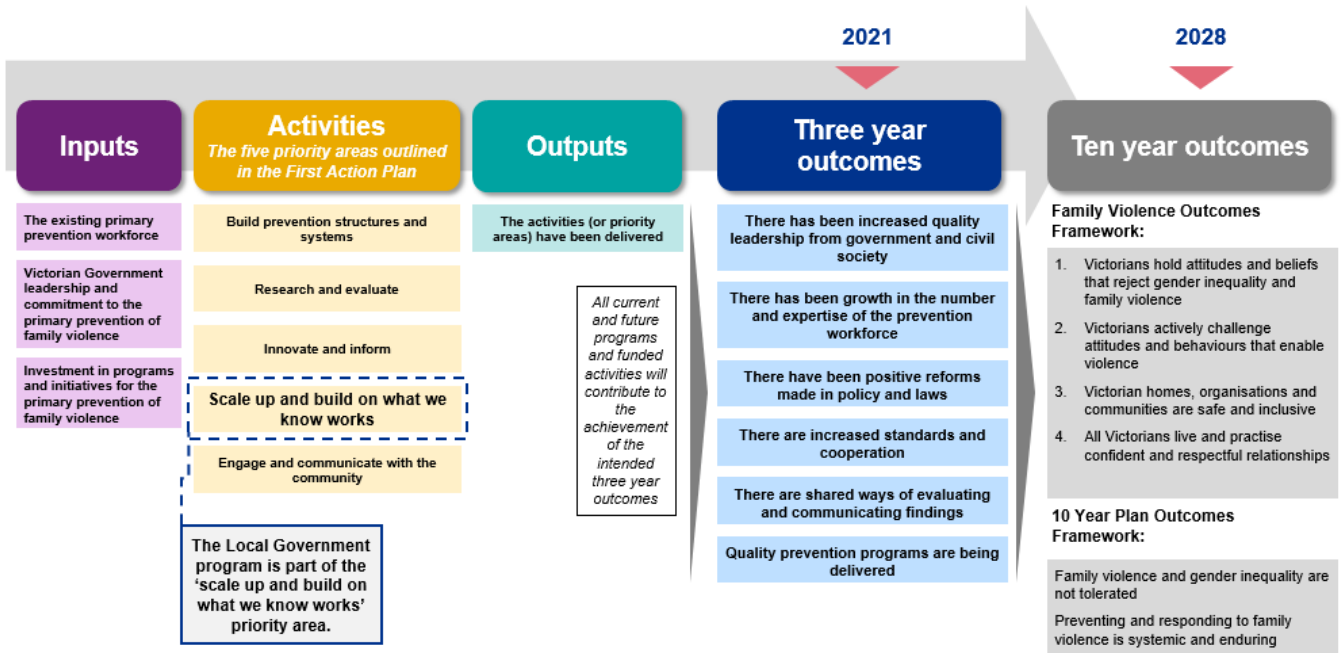

The Theory of Change provides a high level conceptual overview of the elements of the Local Government program and the expected outcomes at the individual, organisational, community and systems level, as depicted in the following diagram.

Sources: This diagram draws on the activities and outcomes outlined in the Strategy, the First Action Plan and Our Watch’s Guide to Prevention Monitoring.

Program logic

The program logic depicts where the Local Government Program sits within the priority areas and initiatives of the First Action Plan and how the one year projects contributes to the three-year and ten-year outcomes.

Sources: This diagram has been developed using the five priority areas identified in the First Action Plan and the six process measures outlined in Counting on Change developed by Our Watch (Source: KPMG 2018)

Part B. Evaluation reporting template

Key evaluation questions

There are two key evaluation questions, with sub-questions and associated indicators that need to be tailored to your project. These questions are related to the theory of change and program logic and have been designed to capture qualitative data and quantitative outcomes of your project.

The two evaluation questions are:

- 1. To what extent is the project achieving one-year outcomes, with line-of-sight toward the three and ten-year outcomes?
- 2. To what extent have the activities under the project been appropriately implemented?

A template has been provided for you to input your responses to the evaluation questions and sub-questions. Instructions for how to complete these templates are below.

Key dates for evaluation

Task	Complete by

Key evaluation question 1- instructions for developing your project evaluation plan

- Select the relevant evaluation sub-questions(s) for your project from sub-questions 1.1 to 1.4 (deleting the other questions from the table).
- For each sub-question, select the relevant indicators that can be used to quantify achievement of your project outcomes. (For example, if your project aims to increase knowledge or awareness among participants, select an individual-level outcome). As a guide, your evaluation plan may contain between 4-6 indicators that you are monitoring to track progress. The indicators and measures provide guidance on data to be collected
- Survey instruments to measure individual-level change during project implementation will be provided to projects early in 2019.

Part C. Appendix

Policy context

In March 2016, the Victorian Royal Commission into Family Violence concluded a 13-month inquiry and handed down a list of 227 recommendations, all of which were accepted by the Victorian Government. These included recommendation 187 that the Victorian Government ensure that the Commission's recommended State-wide Family Violence Action Plan includes a primary prevention strategy that should:

- Be implemented through a series of rolling action plans
- Refer to actions to be taken and be accompanied by performance measures
- Guide and be guided by the Victorian Government's Gender Equality Strategy
- Be supported by enduring funding for family violence primary prevention.

In response, the Victorian Government developed Free from Violence: Victoria's Strategy to Prevent Family Violence and all Forms of Violence against Women ('the Strategy'). The Strategy focuses on preventing two different, but overlapping and related, forms of violence: family violence and violence against women. The Strategy's vision is for a Victoria free from violence, where all Victorians:

- Experience equality and respect in all of their relationships, particularly in the family context and with intimate partners
- Are empowered and respected at home and everywhere
- Are supported in their relationships to reach their full potential.

The First Action Plan 2018-2021 (the First Action Plan) outlines how the Victorian Government will progress Phase One of the Strategy over the next three years. It builds upon the long-term advocacy and innovation of the family violence support and primary prevention sectors, and focuses on strengthening the architecture, systems and structures for a much larger primary prevention platform in Victoria.

The Department has commenced implementing a series of programs, activities and initiatives to deliver the First Action Plan. Your project is one of a number of local government projects that has been funded to implement Phase One of the Strategy.

The Royal Commission into Family Violence also recommended that:

- councils 'report on the measures each council proposes to take to reduce family violence and respond to the needs of victims' in preparing their municipal public health and wellbeing plans (MPHWPs). This requirement is aimed at increasing the focus on family violence prevention and response at a local level and applies to 2017-2021 MPHWPs. Further information regarding family violence and MPHWPs can be found here: <https://www2.health.vic.gov.au/public-health/population-health-systems/municipal-public-health-and-wellbeing-planning/health-and-wellbeing-planning-guides>
- the Victorian Government should:
 - Implement best practice workplace programs in all public-sector workplaces
 - Support the maintenance of the proposed (Our Watch) web-based portal or database of program models, tool kits, training resources and packages for application and use in all workplaces
 - Review and report on options for using existing regulatory frameworks and government procurement policies to support all Victoria employers in implementing best-practice family violence policy.
